

A still life composition featuring a violin, a vase of flowers, a red apple, and an old book. The violin is positioned vertically on the left, with its body partially obscured by a large, rustic ceramic vase filled with a bouquet of purple, pink, and white flowers. A single red apple sits on a stone surface in the foreground. To the right, an old, worn book with a dark cover and a small cross emblem lies on a wooden surface. The background is a textured, yellowish-green wall.
